This part of the TOEIC® test consists of six black-and-white photographs. You will hear four short statements describing each photograph. The photographs cover typical situations. Most of the photographs are pictures of people. Some photographs are pictures of a scene or an object.

You must choose the statement that best describes what you see in each photograph. The statements are spoken only once, and are not written in your test book.

The statements are short and fairly simple. They are often in the present tense.

There is a short pause between each question, but there are no pauses between the statements you hear that describe each photograph.

Quick Check

- How many photographs are in this part of the TOEIC test?
- How many statements are there for each photograph?
- How many times do you hear each statement?
- Are all the photographs of people?
Try It Out

Directions

For each question, you will hear four statements about a photograph. Listen and select the one statement: (A), (B), (C), or (D), that best describes the picture. Then mark your answer. You will hear the statements only once.

Look at the photograph and listen to the four statements.

Example

[M-Am]
(A) He’s working on a computer.
(B) He’s drawing on the board.
(C) He’s walking into the room.
(D) He’s sitting near the desk.

The best description of the picture is statement (B), “He’s drawing on the board.” You should mark answer choice (B).

Answer choice (A) incorrectly interprets the situation. The man is not working on a computer.
Answer choice (C) uses a word that sounds similar to something you can see in the photograph. He is working in the room, not walking into the room. Answer choice (D) uses the wrong verb. The man is standing, not sitting, near the desk.

Remember

On the actual test, you will hear but NOT see the four answer choices.
In this section you will practice ways to improve your score on Part 1 of the TOEIC® test.

These are the exercises you will cover:

Analyzing Distractors
understanding why some statements are correct and others are incorrect

Similar-sounding Words
listening carefully to words that sound alike in order to tell them apart

Incorrect Key Words
listening for key words to help identify correct and incorrect statements

Incorrect Interpretations
listening for false accounts; distinguishing between facts and assumptions

As you work through Improve Your Performance, look back at your answers in the Try It Out section and try to identify your strengths and weaknesses. Notice what problems you have, and focus on the areas you need to improve.
Similar-sounding Words

Incorrect answer choices sometimes include words that sound similar to key words in the correct answers. For example, a photograph shows a man standing in a hall, but the statement you hear says "He’s standing against a wall." The words hall and wall sound similar. You need to listen carefully to distinguish these similar-sounding words.

Exercise A 2

Listen to the words. Check (✓) the words you hear in each pair below.

1. large ✓ charge □
2. fire □ hire □
3. guest □ rest □
4. bag □ rag □
5. wait □ way □
6. plane □ frame □
7. choose □ lose □
8. close □ nose □

3. They’re working together. □
   They’re walking together. □

5. There’s a bat on the chair. □
   There’s a hat on the chair. □
6. The woman is waiting for a train. □
   The woman is waiting for a plane. □

Exercise C 4

Look at this photograph. You will hear six statements. Listen carefully and check (✓) Correct or Incorrect for each statement.

This part of the TOEIC® test consists of 25 items. For each item, you will hear a short question or statement, followed by three responses. You must choose the most appropriate response.

Quick check

LISTENING COMPREHENSION
Words with Multiple Meanings

In English, the same word can sometimes have more than one meaning. For example, you hear the question “Do you have the right time?” followed by the response “Yes, it’s on the right.” The word right is used for two different meanings: right (correct) and right (opposite of left). The TOEIC test sometimes uses words that have multiple meanings in order to mislead you. This is especially common in Part 2.

Exercise A Read these questions and statements. Choose the correct meaning of the underlined word.

1. You have to come and see us more often.
   a. visit
   b. look at
2. We’re looking for two cheap metal filing cabinets.
   a. poor quality
   b. inexpensive
3. That hotel is very good.
   a. kind
   b. high-quality
4. We need to study the report carefully.
   a. learn
   b. examine
5. Let’s fix a date for the meeting.
   a. arrange
   b. repair
6. We need to make some hard decisions.
   a. difficult
   b. solid
7. This keyboard doesn’t appear to work.
   a. seem
   b. become visible
8. Sorry, I think you have the wrong number.
   a. incorrect
   b. unsuitable

Exercise B Complete each pair of sentences with the same word.

1. Do you want to stop work and take a break ?
   The machine is expensive so please don’t break it.
2. I’d like to break a room for tonight.
   I’m reading a break on time management.
3. Hugo is taking a break in business studies at college.
   I never fly business break as it’s too expensive.
4. I would like a break refund, please.
   After the big meal everyone was break .
5. What break of work do you do?
   It was very break of you to meet me.
6. I often break tennis on the weekend.
   What did you think of the break last night?
7. Please tell me your name and break .
   The president gave a wonderful break at the start of the conference.
8. I don’t like food that’s too spicy or break .
   It’s going to be break and sunny all weekend.

MINI TEST Words with Multiple Meanings

You will hear eight questions or statements, each followed by three responses. Listen carefully for words with multiple meanings, and choose the correct response: (A), (B), or (C).

1. A  B  C
2. A  B  C
3. A  B  C
4. A  B  C
5. A  B  C
6. A  B  C
7. A  B  C
8. A  B  C

Score /8
This part of the TOEIC® test consists of thirteen short conversations. There are three questions for each conversation. Each question has four answer choices. You must choose the correct answer from the four choices.

You can read the questions and the answer choices, but not the conversations. You will hear each conversation only once.

NOTE

• Most conversations are between two people. Often each person speaks twice, but sometimes they may speak three or more times each.

• Conversations are designed to be natural, so they include contractions (’ll rather than I will), fillers (Oh, Uh, Hmm, etc.) and a range of formal and informal language.

• One conversation has three people.

• There are a few questions that require you to make inferences based on what you hear. These questions test your knowledge of context, and vocabulary function. For example, What does the man mean when he says, “It’s up to you”?

• For three conversations you will also see a small graphic (e.g., a form, list, or label) together with the questions. One question will require you to relate the information in the graphic to what you hear in the conversation. For example, the graphic may be a list of office departments. One question may be: Look at the graphic. Which department does the man need to contact? You will not hear the name of the department, but the man may be calling with an invoice query, and one of the departments is Finance.

• After each conversation, you will hear the three questions. There is a pause of eight seconds between each question.

Quick check

How many conversations are there in this part of the TOEIC test?
How many conversations have three speakers?
What kinds of graphics are sometimes used?
Do all the conversations include a graphic?
Are the conversations repeated?
EXAMPLE 4 – a conversation including a graphic

This example shows a conversation including a graphic. Notice Question 3, which requires you to relate the information you see in the graphic to what you hear in the conversation.

[M-Br] Sorry, Katy. Can you tell me when I’m seeing Dr. Nickels?
    I can’t remember.

[F-Cn] No problem. Let me just check in the diary… Uh, that’s at 3 P.M. on Friday.

[M-Br] OK, thanks. It’s a long drive and I’m not looking forward to it, to be honest. I hope the weather improves.

[F-Cn] I checked and they say it is going to be warmer from tomorrow.

[M-Br] Well, that’s a relief. And I suppose he is the senior engineer on this project, so I can’t avoid going.

1. What is the conversation mainly about?
   (A) The changing weather
   (B) Plans for a vacation
   (C) An upcoming meeting
   (D) A medical appointment

   The speakers are discussing the man’s meeting with Dr. Nickels, which is scheduled for 3 P.M. on Friday.

2. What does the man imply about Dr. Nickels?
   (A) He has been unwell.
   (B) He might soon retire.
   (C) He will be relieved.
   (D) He is a key associate.

   The man says Dr. Nickels is the senior engineer on this project and therefore he can’t avoid going. We can infer Dr. Nickels is an important contact.

3. Look at the graphic. On what day does this conversation take place?
   (A) Tuesday
   (B) Wednesday
   (C) Thursday
   (D) Friday

   The woman mentions the weather is going to be warmer from tomorrow. We can see from the chart that the weather will improve from Thursday, meaning the day the conversation takes place is Wednesday.

REMEMBER

On the actual test, you will hear but NOT see each conversation.
Listening for Details

In Part 3, you need to show that you can identify and understand important points in the conversations you listen to. Questions that test your ability to understand details in a conversation may ask about time, reasons, plans, offers/requests, suggestions/advice, and opinions. For some questions, you will also need to refer to a graphic (e.g., a list, form, schedule, table, etc.) to find the information you need.

TIPS Listening for Details – Part 3 Short Conversations

- Look for questions beginning with What, When, Why, and How.
- Before you listen, make sure you know what information you need to listen for.
- As you listen, identify any key words or phrases related to the information you need.
- Focus on the information you need to answer each question.
- Check key details in any graphics.

EXAMPLE 1 – a typical conversation

[F-Am] Good morning, this is Helen from Boston Office Supplies.

!time

[F-Am] We have a promotion this month. We have solid oak desks for just $199, and our Ambassador office chairs are half-price.

[M-Am] That sounds good. Umm… well, some of the chairs here are pretty old. How much are the ones you mentioned?

[F-Am] The Ambassador chairs are just $80 right now.

[M-Am] Really?

[F-Am] They’re leather, and come with a five-year warranty.

Why don’t you order now, while the shipping is free?

1. How long does the promotion last?
   (A) All morning
   (B) One month
   (C) Five years
   (D) One week

   The woman says the promotion is for this month. (A) refers to when the conversation takes place. The warranty is for five years (C). (D) is not indicated.

2. What does the woman suggest the man do?
   (A) Buy an oak desk
   (B) Extend the warranty
   (C) Place an order immediately
   (D) Choose special delivery

   The woman says Why don’t you order now… She is referring to the Ambassador chairs, not a desk (A). She refers to a warranty, but not that the man should extend it (B). She says shipping is free, but special delivery (D) is not mentioned.

3. What does the man think of the promotion?
   (A) It is a good opportunity.
   (B) It is expensive.
   (C) It is an old offer.
   (D) It is not very interesting.

   The man says That sounds good. (B) and (D) are incorrect, as the man is interested in the low price. (C) confuses the age of the chairs in the man’s office with the offer.
EXAMPLE 2 – a conversation with a graphic

[F-Br] I've almost finished these designs for Bradshaw's. They want all their original samples back, too, so do you think you could take everything over there later?

[F-Br] Thanks a lot. I promised Geoff Clarkson he would have them today.

[M-Au] Oh, my car's being serviced, so I'll have to take the bus. Is that OK?

[F-Br] Yes. If you're all right with that. Don't you want to take a taxi?

[M-Au] No need. The stop's right outside their place. I have a quick meeting with Steve from Accounts at half past twelve. I'll head straight over after that.

1. What does the woman ask the man to do?
   (A) Finish her work
   (B) Copy some documents
   (C) Deliver a package
   (D) Order some samples

   The woman mentions she has some designs and samples for a client, and asks the man to take everything over there. (A) and (D) are incorrect. (B) is not indicated.

2. What will the man do later?
   (A) Visit a client
   (B) Go to the bank
   (C) Call customer service
   (D) Repair his car

   We can deduce that Bradshaw's is a client, and that is where the man agrees to go later. He mentions a meeting with Steve from Accounts, not that he will visit a bank (B). He says he is having his car serviced, not that he will call customer service (C) or repair the car himself (D).

3. Look at the graphic. Which bus will the man most likely take?
   (A) X5
   (B) Skyliner
   (C) Central
   (D) City Express

   The man says he has a meeting at half past twelve, and adds he will head straight over after that. The only bus leaving later than 12:30 P.M. is the City Express.
Conversations Including a Graphic

Some conversations have a graphic (e.g., a list, or chart). One question will test your ability to relate what you hear with information you see in the graphic. You need to study the information in the graphic while you listen.

- Notice the type of graphic (a map, list, etc.)
- Study the information quickly. Look for dates, names, prices, etc.

The information you hear may sometimes be different from the information you see in the graphic. For example, you see an office directory with a list of names and phone numbers, but in the conversation the speakers say the phone numbers have changed.

This part of the TOEIC® test consists of ten short talks. There are three questions for each short talk. Each question has four answer choices. You must choose the correct answer from the four choices.

The short talks are all given by one speaker. You can read the questions and the answer choices, but not the short talks. You will hear each short talk only once.

There are many different types of short talk. You may hear an advertisement, news bulletin, recorded announcement or traffic report. Some talks may be someone leaving an answerphone message, giving a business talk, or making a public announcement. Before each short talk begins, there is an introductory statement that states the kind of talk you will hear.

NOTE

• Similar to Part 3, for some questions you need to make inferences based on what you hear. These questions often test your knowledge of idiomatic phrases, and expressions in context. For example, What does the woman imply when she says, “I couldn’t have done it without you”?

• For two short talks you will also see a small graphic (e.g., a sign, graph, notice, or list) together with the questions. One question will require you to relate the information in the graphic to what you hear in the short talk. For example, the graphic may be a map. One question may be: Look at the graphic. Where do listeners need to go? The speaker explains to listeners their coach will leave from the stop on Pine Avenue, and the map shows a Visitor Center at that location.

• Some talks are more formal than others. Therefore, some speakers use more relaxed, natural language while others will have a more official tone.

• After each short talk, you will hear the three questions. There is a pause of eight seconds between each question.

EXAMPLE 2 – a short talk including a graphic

This example shows a short talk including a graphic.

[M-Br] Good morning everyone. I need to tell you about a change to our program today. Dr. Carlton is running late. Apparently, there are roadworks on the A14 again and traffic is a nightmare, so no surprises there! He expects to be here in an hour or so, but can’t confirm exactly when. We wish him well. Luckily, Professor Samuels has agreed to swap places with him, so she’ll now be our first speaker this morning. Oh, and one more thing, can I ask you to put your tea and coffee cups back on the drinks station after each break? It will help our kitchen staff enormously.

The speaker says that Dr. Carlton is running late (meaning delayed) due to roadworks on the A14. (A) is incorrect, nightmare is used as very bad (to describe the traffic), not as a bad dream. The speaker says We wish him well, but this does not mean Dr. Carlton is unwell (B). No accident is mentioned (D).

We can see from the graphic that the Urban Partnership session is given by Professor Samuels. The speaker says Professor Samuels has agreed to swap places with Dr. Carlton.

The speaker asks listeners to put your tea and coffee cups back on the drinks station.

   (A) He slept badly the previous night.
   (B) He has a fever and is feeling unwell.

2. Look at the graphic. At what time will the Urban Partnerships session begin?
   (A) 10:00 a.m.
   (B) 11:45 a.m.
   (C) 2:00 p.m.
   (D) 3:45 p.m.

3. What does the speaker ask listeners to do?
   (A) Help in the kitchen
   (B) Take a break
   (C) Finish their drinks
   (D) Return their used cups

REMEMBER On the actual test, you will hear but NOT see each conversation.

Short Talks Including a Graphic

Similar to Part 3, some short talks have a graphic (e.g., a map, or label). One question will test your ability to relate what you hear with information you see in the graphic. You need to study the information in the graphic while you listen.

Types of graphic

The types of graphics you will see in Part 4 are similar to those in Part 3: a building directory, floor plan, schedule, price list, order form, map, meeting agenda, advertisement, timetable, etc.

Tips

• These questions always begin Look at the graphic.
• Notice the type of graphic (a program, timetable, etc.)
• Study the information quickly. Look for numbers, names, places, etc. Listen for this information in the talk.

Warning!

Remember, the speaker may change information that you see in the graphic. For example, you see a notice showing bus numbers and bays, but you hear an announcement saying that one bus will now depart from a different bay.

This part of the TOEIC® test consists of four short texts. Each text has four blanks — these are spaces where a word, phrase, or sentence is missing. Below each blank are four answer choices. You must choose the answer that best completes the sentence.

Part 6 of the TOEIC test is very similar to Part 5. The main focus is on grammar and vocabulary. However, Part 5 consists of single sentences whereas in Part 6 the sentences are part of a text (an e-mail, article, letter, notice, etc.). Therefore, you sometimes need to read more than one sentence in order to choose the correct answer.

In addition, one question for each text asks you to identify a missing sentence. This question tests your understanding of context. You may need to read the paragraph, or even the whole text, again to get a general idea of the purpose.

New leader takes control of GBK, Inc.

Today, GBK, Inc. confirmed the appointment to C.E.O. of Canadian business leader Spencer McGregor. The construction giant elected McGregor due to his extensive experience and previous record. McGregor previously saved Hansely Engineering from collapse, taking it out of trouble to regain its former leading position in the industry. He replaces former C.E.O. Gary Oldson, who was dismissed last month after reports of financial mismanagement. In recent months, GBK has suffered a record drop in sales, with disappointing results for the last quarter. However, the news of McGregor’s appointment was welcomed by industry experts, causing the stock price to increase 12 percent.

Hi all,

Before I advertise these shoes (see attached) on an auction site, I thought I’d ask if any of you would like to buy them from me. I bought them to wear at my brother’s wedding last week, and have worn them only on this one occasion. I really like them, but they’re too high for me and I was wobbling all day! They’re size 7½ and are a very narrow fitting. I’m happy to sell them at half the price I paid for them. If you’re interested, please let me know. I have them in the office with me, so you’re welcome to try them on.

Sincerely,
Eleanor Jarvis
Accounts Department

Hi Eleanor. I got your e-mail. Yes, I’m interested! They’re my size exactly, and I like the look. I’m working at home this morning, but I’ll drop by this afternoon and try them on. Is that ok? Jana
1. Which feature of the shoes is NOT mentioned in the advertisement?
   (A) The manufacturer
   (B) The price
   (C) The material
   (D) The color

2. What does Eleanor suggest about the shoes?
   (A) They were too expensive.
   (B) They are not the right size.
   (C) They are not very popular.
   (D) They are difficult to wear.

3. What size shoe does Jana take?
   (A) 5.5
   (B) 6
   (C) 7.5
   (D) 8

4. What is indicated about Jana?
   (A) She usually works from home.
   (B) She will go to Eleanor's office later.
   (C) She likes to wear shoes made in Italy.
   (D) She prefers to buy used clothing.

5. How much will Jana most likely pay for the shoes?
   (A) $20
   (B) $40
   (C) $60
   (D) $80

The ad states that the shoes are Made in Italy, but does not name the manufacturer. They cost $80 (B), are leather (C), and the color is Cream (D).

In her e-mail, Eleanor writes she was wobbling (meaning walking unsteadily) all day, so we can infer the shoes were uncomfortable to walk in. She writes the shoes are too high for me, but this does not mean they are the wrong size (B). (A) and (C) are not indicated.

In Eleanor's e-mail, she mentions the size is size 7½. In her text, Jana writes the shoes are my size exactly.

Eleanor writes that the shoes are in the office with me. Jana texts that she will drop by this afternoon and try them on. We can deduce she will go to Eleanor's office.

The ad gives the price as $80. In her e-mail, Eleanor writes she will sell them at half the price I paid for them.

Understanding Different Accents

In the Listening section of the TOEIC® test you will hear speakers with American, British, Australian, and Canadian accents. You do not need to identify the different accents. However, being familiar with these accents can help improve your score on the test.

Of course, people from different countries have different accents. Even people from the same country can speak very differently. The American, British, Australian, and Canadian accents used in the TOEIC test are “standard.” This section of Pass the TOEIC Test gives you practice in listening to and understanding “standard” American, British, Australian, and Canadian accents.

Exercise A 119 Listen to the way these words are pronounced differently.
